

$n = 40$

A diagram of a segmented worm, likely a polychaete, shown in a curved, lateral view. The worm's body is composed of many segments, each with a blue circular structure representing a nephridium. A green line is drawn across the upper part of the worm, indicating a point of division or a specific anatomical feature.